

Description and Rationale

Title

Neue Zürcher Zeitung (Switzerland)

Project Description*

This project would digitize the Center for Research Libraries' holdings of a German language newspaper Neue Zürcher Zeitung, which was published in Zurich, Switzerland.

The holdings to be included in this digitization project are from 1882-1925, with some gaps. This material would then be openly accessible through CRL's online platform.

Reasons for Consideration*

Some digitized issues of this title are available, but only through subscription. It would be valuable for scholars in North America, Europe, and elsewhere who are interested in events of that time in Switzerland to have access to this title.

The leading national paper, it maintained a relatively neutral position in its coverage of the first world war. In 1979 it was jointly awarded, together with Die Zeit, the Erasmus prize for outstanding contribution to European culture "because for two centuries its independent stance and high standard of journalism have made it a shining beacon in the formation of public opinion in Europe".
