

Description and Rationale

Title

Ujedinjeno srpstvo = United Serbians

Project Description*

This project would digitize CRL's holdings for Ujedinjeno srpstvo = United Serbians for the years 1917 – 1922 and make them openly accessible on CRL's platform. It was a Serbian language periodical that was published in Chicago, Illinois from 1906-1948, but only the holdings from 1917-1922 are available at this time for digitization.

Reasons for Consideration*

It was a weekly that serves as a historical and social archive of the Serbian diaspora in Illinois from 1906-1948. It was published by J. Palandich. "Palandech was a prominent Serbian American publisher. He published the "Ujedinjeno Srpstvo" (United Serbians, the leading Serbian American newspaper) and had his own agency, the John R. Palandech Agency (Foreign Language Newspaper Representatives, Advertising and Publicity Service): Source: <https://archives.lib.umn.edu/repositories/6/resources/7578>".

It was according to the Chronicling America was described as a independent and most influential Serbian newspapers in the United States (<https://chroniclingamerica.loc.gov/lccn/sn82014274/>). It is not available digitally elsewhere. Given its historical nature, it will be of academic research to the historians, political scientists, cultural anthropologists, linguists who specialize in South East European/Balkan Studies.
